SATURDAY EVEN NG SEPT. 8, 1894.

THE breeze being from the East last evening, Alexandria took a full dose of the United States and were attached to the effluvia from the scows filled with his staff, with the rank of captains in the effluvia from the scows filled with garbage from Washington that lay off that they should receive no pay, and the city. As with men, so with cities, should be free to resign their commisthe city. As with men, so with cities, when the law doesn't protect them, sions whenever they desired. They served on Gen, McClellan's stafftill the they are thrown back upon their own resources and must protect themselves, retreat of the army of the Potomac in for self preservation is the first law of June, 1862, when they returned to Europe. The garbage men in Washingnature. The garbage men in Washington acknowledge that in sending their scows down the river, they are acting solely upon the sufferance of the people of Virginia and Maryland. So far as that sufferance relates to this part of Virginia, it should be withdrawn at once, and every garbage scow that stops near this city should be seized by the police authorities and burned at once. What with hog pens on the South and garbage scows on the East, the lot of Alexandrians at present is not particularly happy. And yet the city has it within its power to stop both the nuisances immediately.

MR SPEAKER CRISP, like ex-Speaker Reed, has declared for the populist;' doctrine of free silver; and this, too, though, at current rates, the silver in a silver dollar is only worth about 50 cts. As such shining lights in the two old parties have embraced the populists' doctrine referred to, it looks as if the populists may, after all, become the dominant party of the country. Well, as an old livery stable keeper in this that while at that meeting the reports from the several districts indicated a city once said, when informed that a pair of his horses were running away: "Let 'em run, I can't stop 'em." And do worse than either the democrats or republicans have done, and as they at proaching, they may as well be allowed while it lasts, as to give either of the old parties another one.

During the time the republican party had control of the government it increased the expense of conducting it from sixty million a year to half a billion. As all of this immense sum is raised by taxes exacted of the people, some of them at least may have an idea of the cost of the luxury they have e joyed. And yet there are people, and, what's more, poor people in the South, who will vote next November to restore the republican party to

FROM WASHINGTON.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.] WASHINGTON, Sept. 8, 1894.

Though the late Louis Albert Philippe, Count of Paris, was a volunteer in the federal army during the war, no official notice of his death will be taken by the War Department, for the alleged reasons that his rank in the service was only that of a captain of volunteers, and that as he was exiled by the French republic, any official mark of respect to his memory by the government would be liable to political misconstruction. His war record is as follows: "In the autumn of 1861 he and his brother, the Duke of Chartres, accompanied their uncle, the Prince de Joinville, to the United States. At the invitation of Gen. Geo. B. McClellan, the young princes entered the military service of close of the Virginia campaign and the volunteered on detached expeditions. At Gaines's Mills they displayed courage and zeal in conveying dispatches and in efforts to reform the line of battle."
